

Roots for Life

Newsletter July 2018

Namaste!

The temperatures are rising, for many, the holidays start soon. A good opportunity to stay in the shade with a cool lemonade and read the July newsletter. Enjoy!

The farm buildings in Chyangsar are in place and the first training sessions are already taking place in the training hall. We are pleased that, despite the new elections and the associated bureaucratic changes, it is still going so fast!

With Tomás and Javier Martínez, who are involved in organic farming and accompanied Carola Gosch on their project trip, the village community was already able to talk about organic cultivation. The trainers of the Social Work Institute also shared insights about their work.

At a festival for women and children from Ghunsa and Chyangsar networking was possible in a relaxed atmosphere. Expectations and ideas were exchanged. This is important to work together well in the future!

Our scholarship holders from Chyangsar, who live with their family in Kathmandu, are now getting company from Thade: Purpho C.T. has the opportunity to do her "School-Leaving Certificate" at a private school in the capital.

For Roots for Life it was also an intensive time in addition to the projects: We were represented at the FairStyria days in Styria and at the Networker for Humanity Day in Germany. In addition, the annual general meeting and project presentation took place.

We would like to invite you!

New federalism in Nepal

The election in 2015 laid the foundation for some changes in Nepal. The strengthening of local structures, which was effective in 2017, has also influenced the work Roots for Life. More...

Carola Gosch met the new ward inspector (administrator of the newly organized electoral district) of Kerung and talked to him about the RfL projects. He was interested and cooperative! More...

From the projects

Village development Chyangsar

In big steps to the goal!

Already a short time after the Topping-out celebration of the guest house, it has already a balcony, timbered doors and the training hall is also just waiting for the interior.

Many thanks to Soroptimist International Union Switzerland and France, who take over a large part of the financing of the guesthouse with kitchen and sanitary facilities...

...And to Networker for Humanity, who finance a large part of the training hall.

The buildings were built in traditional, earthquake-proof construction by workers from Chyangsar. The inhabitants of the village also provided the material. So 80% of the invested sum remains as value added in Chyangsar! More...

Trainings are already taking place in the training hall

These are financed by FairStyria and still take place on the floor, but soon there will be furniture and even glass panes in the windows.

Mutual exchange

...and also met the trainers of our partner Social Work Institute. They Already during the Nepal project trip with Carola Gosch, Tomás and Javier Martínez provided the villagers with input on agricultural issues such as tree care... talked about their projects and the challenges involved. We are glad that the trainers contacted Tomás and Javier even after their departure with questions by e-mail!

This laid the foundation for a Nepalese-Austrian network!

Support for Nurse Narayane

During their visit, Tomás and Javier Martínez also brought medicines to the local nurse. She goes from house to house in the mountains, looking after all who need her.

A party for women and children

In order to get to know the women from Ghunsa even better, Roots for Life organized a big party together with the women from Chyangsar. Because synergies can only be used if it also works on the relationship level and everyone understands each other. More...

This meeting was already the 4th with the women of Ghunsa. While the children were playing and tinkering...

...With the women even more detailed one-on-one talks about their family or nutritional situation and their ideas of cooperation could be conducted.

Not all girls are the same

Through regular meetings with the parents (especially mothers), teachers and the girls themselves, the life situation of the scholarship holders is closely monitored and important issues discussed with the family. It is talked about together, what the girls really need to ideally work on their education. More...

The Tamang girls in Kathmandu have moved

Now they have better access to clean drinking water at school and even a small vegetable garden by the house! More...

Second floor of the school in Thade stands

Despite bureaucratic problems, we are working together with our partner Chay Ya Nepal on the completion of the three classrooms. These and the already completed toilets and showers were mainly financed by Soroptimist International Switzerland and Soroptimist Int Union Française. More...

Roots for Life - Backstage

FairStyria Day

Also this year we were represented by our Chairwoman Carola Gosch at the FairStyria days. FairStyria finances the training of women in Chyangsar and the operation of the model farm. We hope that the partnership will last a long time into the future! More...

Networker for Humanity-Day

Here, too, Carola Gosch was a guest and presented the village development project of Roots for Life in Chyangsar to 1,700 interested visitors in Fellbach near Stuttgart. To a large extent, the NFH finances the local training hall. Many Thanks! More...
